What we will do with your information

These 6 NHS organisations provide health services for people in Merseyside.

We are looking at 6 policies for treatments. We want you to tell us what you think about our ideas. You can answer the survey online or on paper.

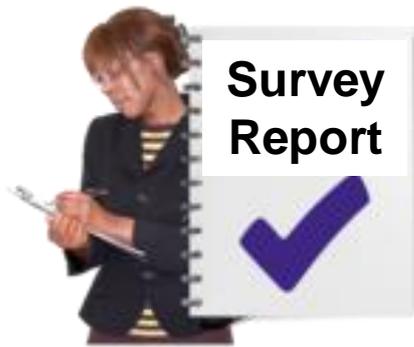

We have asked NHS Midlands and Lancashire Commissioning Support Unit to run the survey and report on the answers.

The online survey has been built using 'Elesurvey'. It is owned by a private company called Elephant Kiosks Ltd who specialise in online surveys.

We ask about your age, gender etc so we can make sure we have heard from lots of different people. You do not have to answer these questions if you do not want to.

A summary of this information will be shared with all the organisations listed on page 4. But nobody will see what your answers were.

A summary of all the answers we collect may be printed or put on our websites. But nobody will see what your answers were.

You can choose not to answer any of the questions. You can choose to stop answering the questions part-way through the survey.

The NHS has rules about how long we keep any information you give us. We will keep your answers for no more than 5 years after the survey has ended.

If you have any questions about this survey please email mlcsu.involvement@nhs.net.

Important questions

If you do not answer these 3 questions we will not be able to look at your answers to the rest of the survey.

If you need any help, please call 01782 872506 or email mlcsu.involvement@nhs.net.

Continuous glucose monitors (CGM) use a small sensor just under the skin to measure blood sugar levels every few minutes. A display device shows what the level is. Diabetic patients need to watch their blood sugar levels carefully.

We suggest this is offered to patients unable to recognise or communicate about their symptoms of hypoglycaemia, because other methods would not be appropriate. The patient must commit to use it at least 70% of the time. Additional criteria will also ensure pregnant patients and children with diabetes will receive CGM where appropriate.

Cough assisted devices remove mucus from the lungs. They help patients who can't cough well enough on their own.

We suggest this will only be given to patients who have a weak cough or can't cough well enough. We will use tests to measure the strength of their cough and their lungs.

Insulin pumps – new Merseyside policy

We are seeking comments or feedback for patients who have had a pancreatectomy or patients with cystic fibrosis related diabetes.

11. Which of these describes you:

I have had this treatment myself
A close family member has had this treatment
A close friend has had this treatment
None of the above (I have no comments to make)

Insulin pumps are worn outside the body and can be programmed to continuously pump insulin into the body. Diabetic patients use insulin to control their blood sugar levels.

We suggest only giving these to patients who have already tried controlling their diabetes with daily injections but regularly have severe high or low sugar levels.

None of the above (I have no comments to make)
Other

Prostatism or lower urinary tract infections can affect your bladder, urethra or kidneys. Most can be treated with antibiotics. Surgery can be an option to destroy part of the prostate.

We suggest we will only pay for surgery if the patient has severe voiding (emptying) or storage (retention) problems, and if all other options have failed or are not suitable.

19. Which of these describes you:

None of the above (I have no comments to make)

Joint injections are where steroids (man-made hormones) are injected into areas like shoulders and knees. They help patients who have stiff, swollen or painful joints. Secondary care means by a specialist and/or in a hospital.

We suggest this will only be done in secondary care if a GP can't do it or if they need an ultrasound to see where to give the injection.

23. Which of these describes you:

None of the above (I have no comments to make)

Transanal irrigation involves flushing faeces (poo) from the bowel (rectum and colon) with water. It helps patients who have conditions like bowel incontinence or constipation.

We suggest we only give this to patients who have tried all other options and has had all the tests and scans. The patient must commit to use it on alternate days.
